- 4. The following Soviet military telephone lines were observed in September 1953:
 - a. Arensfelde-Blamberg. Guarded by sentries.
 - b. Liche-Hoenow. Patrolled
 - c. Neulindenberg-Wartenberg. Patrolled.
 - d. Wandlitz-Bernau, along road. This line is being put in by Soviet troops.
 - e. Werneuchen-Minow. Heavily patrolled, after having been cut by saboteurs.
- 5. On the Miesenthal-Finow road, on the right side, between the 9.7 and 9.1 kilometer milestones, there are wooden signposts with the following text: "Sentries fire without warning on persons who loiter here or pass this installation at night without lights." The installation is surrounded by a high wooden fence with guard towers at the corners. Stone betracks and other buildings can be seen inside. A railroad spur line leads from the installation directly to the Finow station. Aircraft and hangars can also be seen behind the fence, patrolled by interior guards.
